

When the Hurricane Blew

“Tell me again!” the excited child urged his PawPaw.

“Oh, I don’t know, it’s a little scary,” the PawPaw said with a wink in his eye. “Are you sure you want to hear again about...”

- ◆ giant waves,
- ◆ splintering buildings,
- ◆ roaring winds,
- ◆ darkness for days on end,
- ◆ armies of tornados, and
- ◆ towering trees trapping tots in houses?

Are you sure? Tell it again?"

"I'm positive Pops! Tell me again about when the hurricane blew."